But their noise Why is it that amateur baseball in this down in order in the first inning, and town is rotten? The answer is plain to those who are in touch with the situation. Money, the glittering coin of the realm, the little god that is worshiped by eight the little god the god the little god the eyes peeled, and received Lieut. Buck-ley's only pass of the game. Amey flied out, but Beusse, after two futile at-tempts to bunt, laced a single into right, Haywood going to third on the hit and Beusse, before the ball was delivered again, sneaked down to second. seemed to rattle Buckley, who put the ball straight over the plate for Meagher, "Paddy" lining a hot ore to Kanaskie which could not be returned to the plate in time to catch Haywood, and on the attempt to get Meagher at first, Beusse at some sporting house, and most of the also scored on a great piece of base running. Buckley then tightened up retired the next two batters, leaving

"Paddy" stranded on second Norfolk Unable to Score, Litz retired the visitors in order, until the fourth, when the Norfolk Sea Soldlers filled the bases on a combination

Meagher has played professional ball.

Are there really enough ball players in town to support eight leagues, the average league having six clubs, and no two clubs having the same man? Figuring great ball, the hit made in the first interest and allotting twelve play-
